

THE HUNGRY ROOSTER

SUMMER GROWTH PLAN | SALES TEAM MEETING

June 2026 | Confidential — Internal Use Only

School is out. The regular weekday lunch crowd thins out and families shift routines. This is not a slow season for us — it is a prime opportunity to build new revenue streams and relationships that carry us into fall and beyond. This document outlines our focused attack plan across three high-potential channels: office catering, walk-in and online menu orders, and synagogue community catering.

OFFICES TARGETED

Build 3-5 standing
accounts

WALK-IN GROWTH

Drive 20%+ lift in daily orders

SYNAGOGUE PARTNERS

Land 2+ new community
contracts

1. OFFICE CATERING — Building Recurring Revenue

Why Offices?

Corporate offices are the single most reliable repeating catering account available to us. A law firm, medical group, or financial advisory that orders once a week is worth $15,000+ annually — and they renew themselves. Summer is the best time to get in front of new contacts because July and August are slower for them too. Decision-makers are available. They remember who reached out during the quiet months.

Target Profiles

- Law firms (10–50 attorneys) — working lunches, client meetings, depositions. Partner-level admins make the calls. Target: Addison, Las Colinas, Uptown Dallas.
- Medical & dental groups — staff appreciation, lunch-and-learns, patient events. Office managers are your contact. Target: Plano, Frisco, Irving medical corridors.
- Financial & wealth management firms — client appreciation events, board lunches. Budget is rarely a concern. Target: Preston Center, Turtle Creek, Downtown Dallas.

- Tech companies / co-working spaces — team lunches, all-hands meetings, frequent reorders. Target: Deep Ellum, Uptown, Allen/Frisco tech campuses.

What We Offer Them

- Minimum-order packages starting at $150 — flexible for small and large teams.
- Kosher-certified menu — a genuine differentiator; no other local option matches this.
- Online ordering + delivery within 30 miles from our kitchen.
- Recurring account setup — same order, same day each week, we handle the rest.

How We Win the Account

- Drop-in introduction — walk in with a sample tray and a one-page menu. No appointment needed. The food closes the conversation.
- First-order offer — complimentary add-on (dessert tray, extra side) on the first order to reduce risk.
- Follow-up within 72 hours — every drop-in gets a follow-up call or email.
- Referral chain — one satisfied office manager tells the next. Ask every happy client for one introduction.

2. WALK-IN & ONLINE MENU ORDERS — Daily Revenue Growth

The Summer Opportunity

Summer changes daily patterns. More people are working from home, taking midday breaks, picking up lunch for remote teams, or looking for reliable family meal options. Our new website and online ordering system are live — now we need to drive people to it. The goal: make The Hungry Rooster the go-to weekday lunch and dinner option in our delivery zone.

Drive Walk-in Traffic

- Lunch specials (M/T/Th) — feature a rotating daily special on social media by 9 AM. Create urgency: limited quantity. Drive people to call or order online by 11 AM.
- Google Business Profile — update our hours, photos, and weekly post every Monday. This is free visibility that compounds over time. Respond to every review within 24 hours.
- Signage at the kitchen — clear QR code pointing to hungry-rooster.vercel.app at our location and any shared kitchen common areas.
- Referral cards — include a simple card with every order: "Bring a friend, get a free side." Word of mouth is still our fastest growth channel.

Drive Online Orders

- SMS list — we have an opt-in customer list. Use our SMS Blast tool weekly: announce the week's menu every Sunday evening to drive Monday-Tuesday orders.
- Dinner Drop program — promote the weekly Dinner Drop actively. Families without school schedules are looking for reliable Tuesday/Thursday family dinner options.

- Online catering — push our catering page for summer events: pool parties, family reunions, office summer cookouts. Minimum order, easy checkout, delivery included.
- Social media cadence — at minimum 4 posts per week: Monday menu reveal, Wednesday food photo, Friday Shabbat reminder, Sunday Dinner Drop tease.

Reactivate Lapsed Customers

- Pull any customer who ordered in winter/spring but hasn't ordered since May.
- Send a personal text or email: "Hey [name], we miss you — here's what's new this summer."
- Offer a returning-customer incentive: free delivery on their next order.

3. SYNAGOGUE COMMUNITY CATERING — Our Home Field

Our Built-In Competitive Advantage

No other caterer in DFW combines professional restaurant-level food, full Kosher certification, and the community trust we've already built over years. Synagogues need what we do better than anyone else. The opportunity is to formalize and expand relationships that may currently be informal, and to introduce ourselves to communities we haven't reached yet.

Summer Synagogue Calendar = Catering Calendar

- Shabbat dinners & Kiddush lunches — weekly recurring for active congregations. One synagogue account can mean 30–50 orders per month.
- Summer camp send-offs & welcome-backs — July and August events for kids returning from and departing to summer programs.
- B'nai Mitzvah season — Shabbat morning Kiddushes and Saturday evening events. Summer is peak B'nai Mitzvah catering season.
- Study groups & adult education — smaller, more frequent orders (20–40 people). Great entry point into a new congregation.
- High Holiday preparation (August) — Rosh Hashanah is in September. Synagogues are planning and booking in August. Be in front of them now.

How We Build the Relationship

- Personal outreach from Scarlet — the Rabbi and Executive Director want to know the owner. A personal call or visit carries more weight than any flyer.
- Complimentary tasting — offer to bring a sample spread to one committee meeting. The food does the selling. Let them experience the difference.
- Shabbat package pricing — create a simple per-person Shabbat package (appetizer, main, sides, dessert) that is easy for them to approve and budget.
- Reliability promise — we don't cancel. We don't show up late. That promise is the most important thing a synagogue needs to hear from a caterer.

Target Congregations

- Start with congregations already familiar with us or our team — warm introductions first.
- Expand to: Orthodox, Conservative, and Chabad communities in Plano, Frisco, Allen, Irving, and North Dallas.
- Contact: Executive Director / Office Manager for event scheduling; Rabbi for relationship and trust; Sisterhood / Brotherhood chairs for recurring program catering.

ACTION PLAN — SUMMER 2026

THIS WEEK

- Identify 10 target offices in our delivery zone and assign one team member per outreach.
- Update Google Business Profile with summer hours and a fresh post.
- Schedule first SMS blast to existing customer list announcing summer menu.
- Call 2 synagogue contacts to schedule a tasting or intro meeting.

BY JULY 15

- Complete first-visit drop-ins at all 10 office targets. Follow up every open conversation.
- Land first synagogue summer event booking.
- Set up a recurring weekly social media post schedule (use pre-written captions).
- Reactivate lapsed customer list with personal outreach.

BY AUG 15

- Have at least 3 offices on a standing weekly or bi-weekly catering order.
- Lock in High Holiday catering bookings (Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur break-fast).
- Review weekly order volume: are walk-in and online orders trending up vs. June?
- Identify what's working and double down. Cut what isn't.

The food is already exceptional. The certifications are in place. The website is live. This summer is about showing up, building relationships, and making sure the right people know we exist. Let's go.
